

Sketch 1

AUSTRALIA. 2026.

Australia's

Gaming

Notion

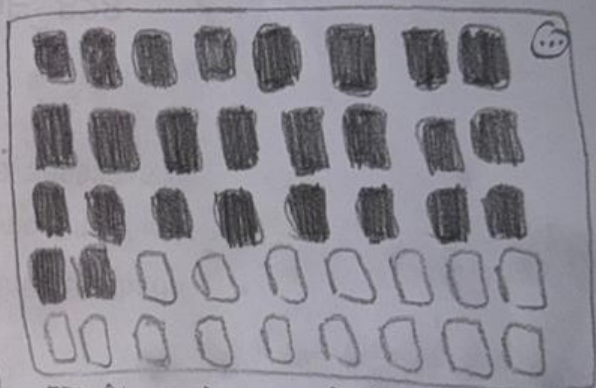

We tell ourselves a story about who plays video games:
It's teenage boys, alone in a bedroom, lost in a fantasy.

THE HEADLINE FIGURE

82.1.

of Australia's play video games, across every age group and every state. Each square in the grid represents one in a hundred Australians.

Source: Australia Plays 2025, IGEA & Bond University. (national survey of 1,241 households).

■ Plays Games □ Does not play

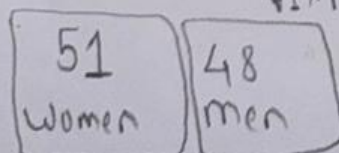

GENDER

For first time in 20 years of research, women outnumber men among Australian gamers.

FEMALE

MALE

1% Non-binary

Australia plays 2025.

HOUSEHOLDS

Nearly nine in ten Australian homes contain at least one gaming device.

At least one device 89.1%

Two or more devices 74.1%

Three or more devices 47.1%

Sketch 2

CHAPTER 01. THE PLAYERS

The average gamer is 35, working full-time, and probably your colleague.

Who plays - by age and gender

DEVICES

Consoles still rule. But almost everyone is also playing on a phone.

The X-box Playstation-Nintendo console remains most-used gaming device in Australia, present in 87% of player
households.

Sketch 3

THE EXPORT STORY

Ninety-five cents in every dollar earned by an Australian games studio comes from a player overseas

CHAPTER 03: THE GEOGRAPHY

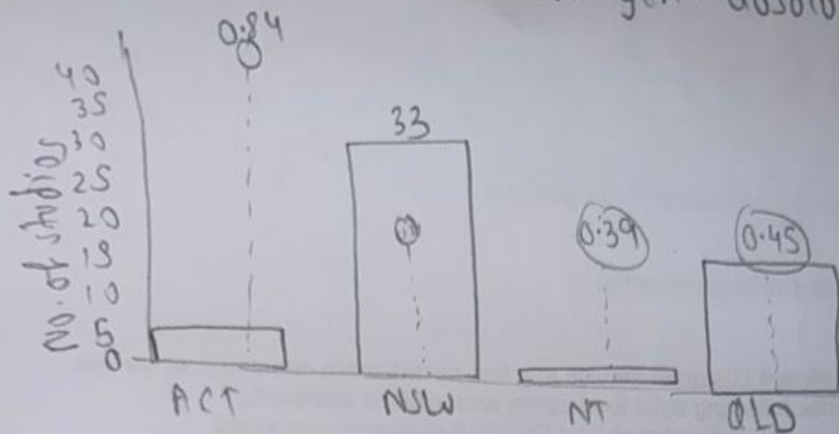

Melbourne is the capital. But Tasmania and Canberra make the most of their size.

studios per 100,000 people

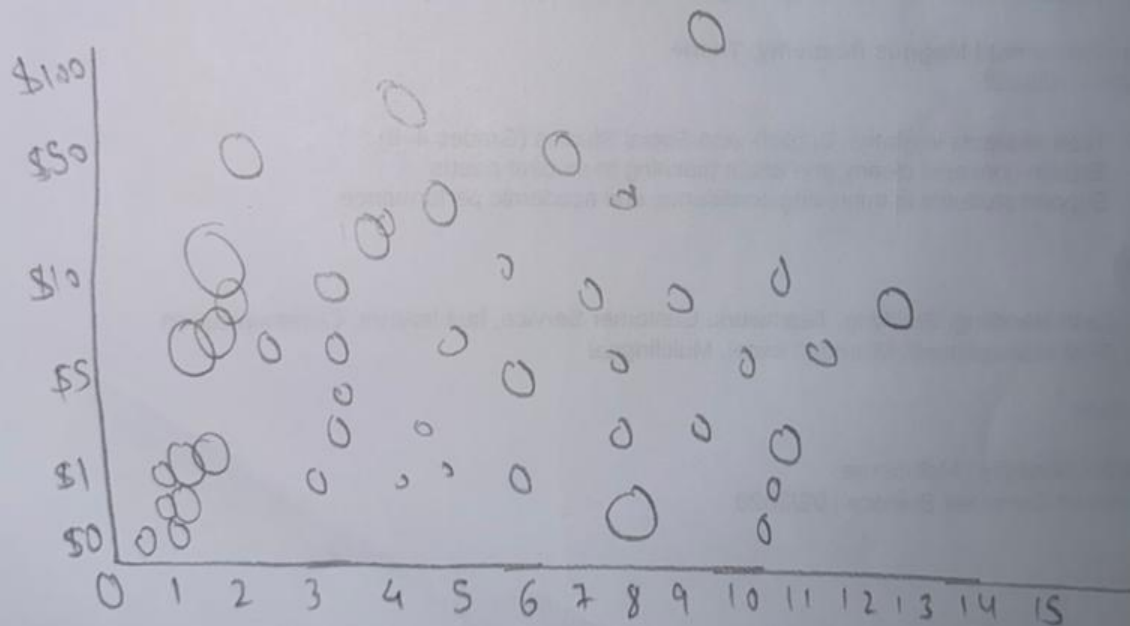

Sketch 4

Two ways to read state strength - absolute and per-capita

CHAPTER 04. INSIDE THE STUDIOS

Most Australian studios are smaller than five people. A handful do most of the revenue.

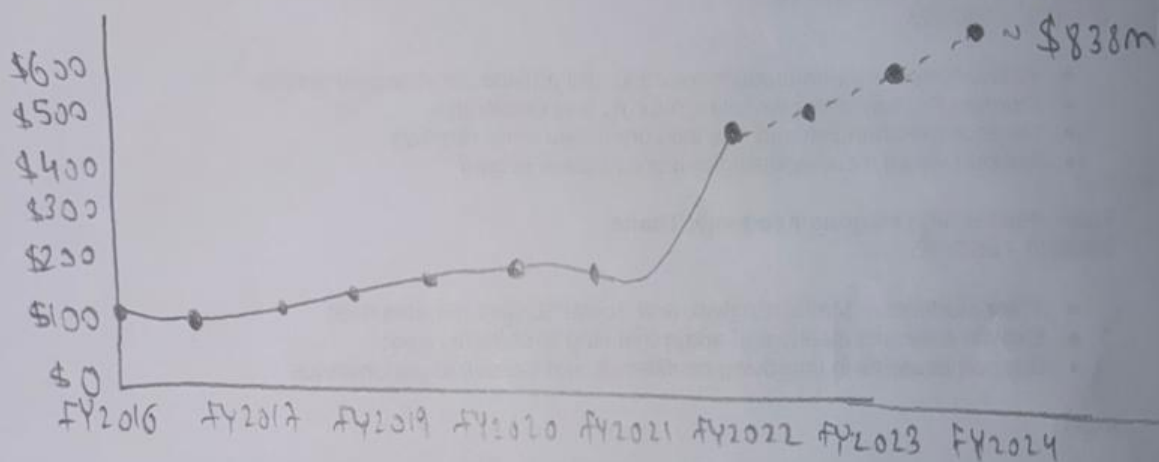

Sketch 5

What everyone in the industry actually does for a job

QACSL			Audio (31)		Narrative (21)		...
7	5	33	3	24	12	11

Chapter 05. THE HORIZON

If the past decade rhymes, Australia will be a billion-dollar games exporter before the end of the decade

Revenue

10